EX-KAISER'S EXTRAORDINARY CONVERSATION.

COPENHAGEN, December 4th.
Professor Wegener has communicated to the Cologne Gazette a conversation he had with the ex-Kaiser five days before the latter's flight.
The ex-Kaiser asserted that Dr. Behnmann-Holweg and Herr Jagow were solely responsible for Germany's policy. The latter few weeks before war he sent him to Norway against his will. Dr. Behnmann-Holweg told him if he remained in Germany it would mean war for which the world would make the Kaiser responsible.

He had received no reports from his Ministers throughout his stay in Norway and had only learned what happened in the world from the Norwegian papers.
When he thus learned that the British fleet had sailed he returned on his own accord, and the British nearly caught him.
The Kaiser concluded by emphatically reiterating that Russia was responsible for the war asserting that Russian troops were across the frontier before war was declared.

ports that the "Kaiser's True" soldiers

In order to avoid bloodshed the Workers and Soldiers Council has resolved provisionally not to hoist the flag again.
General von Hindenburg has issued a proclamation to the troops appealing for patience a little longer and announces that preliminaries for the big-scale land settlement have begun and will be expected to be completed in a few days.

This provides for the building of hundreds of thousands of houses upon cheaply acquired land with public funds lent at low rates for farmers and gardeners.
Similarly they are building houses in garden suburbs for town workers including those on sedentary employments.

MODEST HERO.

FIVE MINER WHO DEFIED HUNS.

Where is the artist to depict the deathless story of the seven heroes of Meuvres?
Sir Douglas Haig narrated it in one of his recent dispatches. A corporal and six men of the 1st Battalion, Highland Light Infantry, 52nd Division, forming the garrison of one of our posts just north of the village of Meuvres was surrounded and believed to have been captured. During the 3 days in which the Germans were in occupation of Meuvres this party, in fact, maintained their position with great gallantry, and inflicted many casualties on the enemy. On the night of Sept. 18-20, when Meuvres was retaken by our troops, six of the party regained their unit.

THE CORPORAL INTERVIEWED.

The correspondent of a French paper has had a chat with the gallant corporal, who was as uncommunicative as most British soldiers are under such circumstances. "We had 3 barabaras to endure," he admitted, "the German and the English." "One of your comrades was killed?" asked the correspondent. "Yes, a brave chap. He was struck by a piece of shell in going to look for help. Another was able to regain our lines. He is wounded.
The others are alive." This is practically all he was able to extract from the heroic corporal. Asked what he might do next, the corporal replied:—"I am not worrying. I should like to go on leave after months in the trenches. The corporal's brigadier was more communicative.

"On the evening of 7th," he said, "when we had evacuated Meuvres, the little post composed of a corporal and 6 men, who had been placed in the north-east of the village, remained where they were. Think of the position! It was situated on the side of a little railway by which munitions were conveyed. The Germans were on the other side. The little band remained to fight, and in what condition? Well, you believe it that the brave boys, when they were rescued, wished, in spite of their fatigue, to join their comrades in the fight.
I ordered them to rest, but they would not. One of them had been killed, another wounded, 4 are in hospital to respond to the call.

CORPORAL DAVID HUBERT.

Through a letter, written to his wife the name of the corporal is now known. It is David Hubert, who before he enlisted was a miner at Rimont, a village near Dunfermline. In his first letter he gave a modest account of his defence of the post, and says that his work was described by the Brigadier-General as "a good piece of work." In a second letter he says:
"I am being made a sergeant very soon, and I was told on the quiet last night that I have been recommended for the Victoria Cross, but I am afraid that is a bit too much, but one never knows."
His chief anxiety seems to be for his wife, and he may see his wife. "His darling was Katie and baby Ben."

"I told the French correspondents who came to see me," he writes, "that it was my leave that was worrying me, and one of them told me it would be all right. He took down that I was married and had 2 children, and that I was a miner, and then they took a snapshot of me. I think this will mean a French decoration, so you see I am anxious it just now."

JAPANESE LOANS TO CHINA.

Peking, Nov. 27. A Japanese communique states that the loan of ¥ 10,000,000 contracted on October 20 between the Ministry of Communications and the Sino-Japanese Industrial Company was a loan for the general extension for a further three years of the existing loan of ¥3,000,000. It is agreed that the present loan shall only be utilized for expenses connected with the extension of the Chinese telephone system, and in order to prevent the increased amount being expended for political purposes, it is provided that the sum of ¥7,000,000 shall be deposited at the Company's Tokyo Office, and the amounts shall be surrendered to the Chinese Government when it is proved that they are destined for the agreed purposes of the loan.

The interest of this new loan will be paid by the Chinese Government, and it is stated that the loan will be repaid by the Chinese Government, and it is stated that the loan will be repaid by the Chinese Government, and it is stated that the loan will be repaid by the Chinese Government.

WITH A BRITISH SUB- MARINE.

THE ART OF STALKING
A U-BOAT.

One of our submarines was on patrol, and, as it turned out, to be a grateful cruise for her some extracts from her captain's subsequent report will prove to be not without interest.

When in a certain position he sighted an enemy submarine about six miles away, and immediately dived to attack.
It was 200 minutes later when he again sighted the enemy, and altered course to improve his position. He says—

"Continued on this course, closing enemy until 9.30, when, on putting up periscope, enemy was seen to have altered towards us, putting boat line on his port bow. . . . Altered course at full speed and stood by starboard beam tube to fire as the passed."

"On putting up periscope again, however, enemy was seen to have continued his alteration, and was sighted on our port quarter. Thinking that I might not get another opportunity of firing and although the range was great, I followed round and fired the port beam tube. Torpedo did not hit."

Proceeded to attack at full speed to get in with bow torpedoes. . . . The enemy again altered course, which brought sights on sooner than was expected. I gave the order to fire both bow torpedoes."

After the torpedoes had reached him, the enemy altered course and disappeared at full speed.

Two days later the British submarine was again busy, for we read: "Sighted enemy submarine on the port bow.
Dived to attack. On putting up periscope found him nearly bow on, having suddenly altered course. Dived to cross his bow. On coming up again found I was on his starboard beam."

Raised periscope and found sights not quite on; altered course in order to bring my sights on. Raised the periscope again, ready to fire, and found that the enemy had altered course right away from me, and that I was fine on his starboard quarter. Fired the starboard bow tube, as I thought there might be a faint chance of hitting, although the target was very small and going away from me. He disappeared."

EVEN MORE ACTIVE.

In the afternoon of the same day our submarine captain was even more active than usual. At 3.40 he says: "Heard an under-water explosion and observed a column of smoke three points on the port bow. Came to the surface, and saw that the smoke was a very long way off, but sighted the mast and funnels of a steamer right ahead. She was blowing off steam, and did not look normal.
Closed on surface and soon saw that the steamer was down by the bow and stopped."

Dived.
Sighted enemy submarine on starboard bow, apparently just come to the surface and proceeding towards the steamer, which appeared to be abandoned. Proceeded to attack. Enemy passed southward of steamer and then round the stern. I proceeded round the bow, sighting him again four minutes later.
I reached the bow of the steamer enemy steered towards the stern again.
I altered to port to intercept him before he reached the stern."

Raised periscope and fired both bow torpedoes. One hit midway between conning tower and bow the other midway between conning tower and stern. Enemy submarine sank. . . .
I followed the steamer's lifeboats and brought them back to the steamer, which the master informed me he thought he could get into port. I dived near the steamer."

The report concludes with the submarine captain's recommendations of his ship's company. His feelings on the subject are admirably summed up in a sentence: "I should like to bring to your notice that the behaviour of all officers and men was excellent, and entirely as expected."—Excellence.

WHY WORRY?

"WHY worry? The War's over!" So it is. We have all heard that remark more than once, but there is much to "worry" about yet.
We're not out of the game simply because the Hun have laid down their guns. What you gave on Heather Day and at the Fair is surely not the limit of your sacrifice! There are thousands and thousands of brave men condemned to pass the rest of their lives in misery unless we rally to the aid of the great work of healing. Thanks to the Army and Navy, we we have had, and will continue to have, a very comfortable time in Hongkong. It is our duty then to "worry" in order that the maimed and sick, the human wreckage of the great war of Liberty, may be restored. Every one of us here owes a great debt to the men who fought and bled in war—a debt which we can never repay. But we can show our appreciation by giving our last cent to the great work of mercy in which so many noble men and women are engaged at home. Money is urgently needed. Shall we grudge it now that the war is won? Never let it be said that our patriotism and honour peters out with the echo of the last shot. Don't say that you put every cent you had into Heather Day and St. Andrew's Fair. The War Bond Drawing is for the same cause and its success must be written down in the annals of the Colony's giving as another endeavour to show tangible appreciation of the brilliant achievements, on the battlefield and on the North Sea, of the bravest boys on earth. Make the result a Victory Offering worthy of the Colony.

GERMANY.

A NEW MOVEMENT.

AMSTERDAM, December 3rd.
Berlin states that a nervous feeling exists owing to an anticipated coup d'état by the Spartacus Group, of which sinister signs are apparent. Spartacus action was probably precipitated by the Government and the Congress of Greater Berlin Soviets passing a resolution in favour of the composition of the Constituent Assembly.

DR. SOLT'S RESIGNATION.
An official statement from Berlin states that the Executive Committee for Greater Berlin, in understanding with the Bavarian Executive Committee, has resolved to demand the immediate resignation of Dr. Solt and his replacement by a constant opponent of the old system and the war policy; also an assurance that Herr Erzberger will not participate in the peace negotiations.

FINANCIAL PANIC STILL PREVAILING.

AMSTERDAM, December 3rd.
A telegram from Berlin says that the Zentralblatt reports that considerable financial panic is still prevailing in Berlin.

The people are continuing to withdraw from the bank and post office deposits. Payments of rates and taxes have ceased in Greater Berlin since the revolution.

KAISER MUST NOT RETURN.
The ex-Stat-Secretary, Herr Denburg, addressing a combined political demonstration at Magdeburg, declared that the members of the Dynasties must not return.

DOWN WITH EISENER.

COPENHAGEN, December 3rd.
A telegram from Munich states that during yesterday's revolutionary celebrations, some of his own partisans hissed Herr Eisner, whilst, at a subsequent concert, at which one of Herr Eisner's friends tried to speak, he was obliged to decamp. Later the crowd removed the Red Flag and stormed the Department of the Interior shouting: "Down with Eisner."

THE ARMISTICE.

TO RECOVER 1871 LEVI.

PARIS, December 3rd.
The Paris Municipal Council is unanimously in favour of recovering from Germany the 200,000,000 francs levied on Paris in 1871, with interest.

Over 40,000 British war-prisoners have arrived in England from Germany since the Armistice.

MARSHAL FOCH'S ULTIMATUM.

COPENHAGEN, December 3rd.
A telegram from Berlin states that Marshal Foch sent an ultimatum to the German Armistice delegates, demanding the handing over of the best and strongest locomotives. The ultimatum expired on December 2nd, but the results are not yet known.

NO HOPE!
The Vorwaerts and other German newspapers emphasize that there is no hope of the prolongation of the Armistice, and if acceptable civil order is not established the Allies will occupy Germany.

THE INTER-ALLIED CONFERENCE.

REPRESENTATIVES HEARTILY CHEERED.
LONDON, December 3rd.
The Inter-Allied Conference resumed at 10, Downing Street, this morning. A huge crowd again very heartily cheered the British and Allied representatives, especially Marshal Foch. Prior to the Conference, the Imperial War Cabinet met, the Premier presiding. Sir Richard Borden, Mr. W. M. Hughes and other Dominion Representatives were present.

ENDED.

LONDON, December 3rd.
The Inter-Allied Conference ends today and the Allied delegates leave tomorrow.

DELIBERATIONS CARRIED ON WITHOUT A HITCH.

LONDON, December 3rd.
It is authorized to state that the deliberations of the Inter-Allied Conference were carried out without a hitch and that definite and important conclusions were reached.

The Conference broke up at six and winds up tomorrow. The crowd did not disperse all day long.

There was a brilliant gathering when the French Embassy gave a reception to-night to M. Clemenceau and Marshal Foch, who were accorded a thrilling welcome.

M. Clemenceau evoked cries of astonishment and consternation by the disclosure that he was instrumental in appointing Marshal Foch Chief of the General Staff. Marshal Foch had previously occupied a Command.

In a speech, Marshal Foch said that the Armistice had interrupted an offensive which would have ended disastrously for the enemy.

Nations such as the Czech-Slovaks of Poland and Roumania cannot be created with the present existence of Bolshevism. It is the duty of the Entente to place at the disposal of the partisans of order a military force protecting them against the army of the Bolsheviks. With the Entente force as a nucleus a Russian Army could be created.

VICTORY FESTIVAL IN PEKING.

MOST BRILLIANT FUNCTION ON RECORD.

The official celebration of the conclusion of peace was the most brilliant function of its kind in the history of China. The attendance was enormous and the music was excellent.

The Allied troops stood at attention in the great courtyard of the Tai-Ho Palace, which is one of the finest examples of Chinese architecture. In the brilliant sunshine it appeared its best, with its white palisades for above tier, thronged with guests. Brilliant uniforms of various nations and a generous display of Allied flags lent additional brightness to the scene, enhancing the general effect.

The troops were very smart, especially the American Marines and the Indians, who never moved during the interval while awaiting the arrival of the President, while their dispositions showed regard for the colours of their uniforms and the height of the men. The interval ended by the command, "present arms," the bands struck up and the President followed by the Diplomatic Corps and Cabinet Ministers, passed through the troops and entered the Tai Ho Tien. Thereupon the Allied flags were marched to the terrace in front of the terrace on which the President emerged and read the following address:—

"This is a day just after victory; a day of celebration thereof, which I, the President, am delighted to attend. Weapons have now been laid aside and peace reigns again. Violence has been defeated and right has been justified, and a new glorious page has been written in the history of the war. Allied soldiers as well as Chinese join me in rejoicing for we are of one heart and principle. There are sayings in Europe such as 'Might cannot conquer right' and 'Peace comes before a fall.' Compare these with some Chinese maxims, such as 'soldiers fighting for right are strong, while those fighting for might are weak,' also 'one striving to do right gains assistance while the one doing wrong gets the least aid,' etc. Both foreign and Chinese histories show the truth of these maxims. When man strives with man there is individual competition, when nation strives with nation there is national rivalry, but right should always be the deciding factor. If one man attempts to trample upon right, the nations must oppose him; therefore the Allies supporting right utilized the whole of their resources, but they knew that right must triumph and that this was the ultimate victory. We, animated by the same spirit, joined the Allied cause. Now right has triumphed and hereafter right will shine with the brilliance of celestial bodies and the merit of the Allies shall be everlasting. Their victory is the greatest in history. The Allied and Chinese soldiers, now standing in the same enclosure are friends together, and I earnestly hope that we shall never forget this memorable occasion and that we shall always observe the principles of the victory which we are celebrating here and that the nations of the world will maintain peace for ever."

The troops then marched out and rockets were fired, while aeroplanes, circling overhead, dropped congratulatory messages. The Allied Legation Guards and a picked battalion of Chinese troops marched through the Legation Quarter while the remainder of the Chinese troops marched through the western city past General Tuan Chi-jui's residence.

NAVAL "HUSH" V.C.

HUMOROUS INCIDENT AT PALACE.

A humorous incident marked the King's investiture in the Quadrangle of Buckingham Palace, recently. One of the naval "hush" V.C.'s was to be presented to Lt. Harold Auton, of the R.N.R., the story of whose gallantry in an action with an enemy submarine cannot be told until after the war. Instead of reading the record of the exploit for which the honour had been awarded, as is usual, the Equerry merely stated that Lt. Auton had won the V.C. Lt. Auton stepped forward to receive the decoration, and at the same moment the band of the Irish Guards began to play "Hush, hush, hush. Here comes the Bogey Man."

The King, as well as the spectators at once saw the humour of the coincidence and laughed heartily. A second V.C. awarded to Lt. Col. Chas. Edward Hodgkin of the Sherwood Foresters was also presented. The distinction was won for a daring action on the Italian front.

COMMERCIAL

MALAYSIAN RUBBER.

The twelfth ordinary general meeting of the Malaysian Rubber Company, Ltd., was held on September 25, at the Rubber Growers' Association, 28, Eastcheap, E.C., Mr. George Corderoy (chairman and managing director) presiding.

The Chairman, in the course of his speech, said:—Notwithstanding the fact that the amount of rubber harvested during the year was 423,823 lbs. net, as against 573,030 lbs. net in 1917, the net profit was only £17,201 14s. 6d. as against £24,524 18s. 6d. in the previous year. This is wholly accounted for by the decrease in the selling price of the rubber, which was 2s. 0 1/2d. per lb. net, as against 2s. 7 1/2d. per lb. net in the year 1917. The increase in the cost of the rubber is only very slightly up, viz., 1s. 1 1/2d. per lb., as against 1s. 0 9/16d. per lb. in 1917, notwithstanding the increased cost of materials and general expenses and the total cost is only 0.22d. per lb. more than in 1917. While this favourable result is mainly due to the increase in the rubber harvested, it also shows that the expenditure has been carefully watched.

After referring to changes of management and the many changes in the staff he continued:—We have continued to devote every attention to the health of the trees and to the checking of incipient diseases and the drainage and deep cultivation of the estate. The buildings and plant have been fully maintained during the year under review, and our visiting agents reports favourably, under date July 1, upon the condition of the estate. The labour position is not free from anxiety, but may be described, generally speaking, as satisfactory. As far as the report, our application for additional land has been turned down by the Government in common with all similar applications by other companies, owing to the conditions set up by the war. These conditions are very difficult and have occasioned both expense and anxiety to the board. Owing to the restriction of output enforced upon us by reduced demand, consequently mainly upon the rationing scheme introduced in the United States, with the resulting drop in the selling price of rubber, the present outlook of our company, in common with that of all other companies, is far from bright.

PARENT SITUATION.

Some attempt is being made in the F.M.S. to give relief to the industry by the suspension of the export duty and the war tax, and there is a suggestion that the American manufacturers will press the Government to allow more rubber to be imported into the United States. The whole position of the industry is under review by the Government authorities in consultation with the Rubber Growers' Association. I am not in a position to forecast the probable outcome of their deliberations, though some people hope that a minimum price for the product will be fixed. The situation is such that it believes all concerned to exercise the greatest prudence in connection with the finance of the companies for which they are responsible, and to conserve their resources.

Turning now to the accounts, it is unnecessary to comment upon them at length. The reserve fund now stands at a total of £14,025, made up as to £10,000 of general reserve and £4,025 in respect of debenture redemption fund. As already stated, we show a net profit of £17,201 14s. 6d., giving, with the amount of £4,175 14s. 6d. brought forward from 1917 (i.e., the amount of £18,016 15s. 6d. brought forward from the previous year) a total available balance of £21,376 14s. 6d. As stated in the report, interim dividends of 15 per cent., amounting to £4,600, have been paid during and on account of the year 1917, and the sum of £1,160 placed to debenture redemption fund. The directors regret that they cannot recommend the payment of any further dividend, having regard to the need already referred to for conserving the liquid assets of the company, the claim for excess profits duty and the prevailing general situation. I can report as to the position with regard to the assessment for excess profits duty. This is being vigorously disputed by the board. I don't as yet, in my speech last year with reference to this company, say anything about it, but I intend to do so in my next report. I intend to say that I have endeavoured to pay the duty, but I have been unable to do so, and I intend to say that I have endeavoured to pay the duty, but I have been unable to do so.

COLOSSAL PLUNDERING.

The Financial correspondent of the Daily Telegraph wrote on September 18th:—The Austrian peace proposal shed light on the plundered indemnity by the Central Powers. Swiss sources of news give approximate estimates of the total booty wrung from the countries and territories invaded by the Imperial armies of Germany and Austria. Attila was an insignificant marauder compared with Kaiser Wilhelm. Before the recent victories of the Allies, the German Press, especially the "Frankfurter Zeitung," the leading financial organ of Germany, stated that the Empire could easily pay the huge war debt with the plunder captured by the Imperial Armies in occupied territory and in Russia. This plan was advocated at the time of the great German offensive in the spring. The Russian organ remarked complacently that it is impossible to estimate the loss to France through the devastation of towns and rural districts by the German armies, but the gain to Germany by pillage and requisition can be calculated. The Eighth German War Loan returned £720,000,000, and raised the debt of the Empire to £4,360,000,000 consolidated since 1913. The most effective means for covering the heavy war expenditure are ready to hand in the booty captured and money extorted in the occupied territory.

The German armies are the best instrument for the amortization of the war debt by expropriating the enemy. During six months, from October, 1917, to March, 1918, the Central Empires captured a value of £75,000,000 solely in arms, munitions and railway rolling stock. To this booty must be added clothing, oil, tea, copper, and rubber seized in the north of France and Siberia for German needs during an entire year. The total plunder of the Imperial armies and German administrative expropriations in invaded countries are equivalent to a big war indemnity, and are most beneficial to German finances. Since the recent defeat the tone has changed.

A German, Herr Hartman Fernan, writes recently in the Swiss review, "Einkaufswort," that now all nations being up in arms against Germany Imperialism, that Empire must become a democratic State to escape from economic war and commercial and financial ruin. The organization of German democracy would be the most brilliant of victories. On the other hand, Professor Oppenheimer replied in the "Frankfurter Zeitung" to the alleged statement in the British Press recommending the exaction of a war indemnity from Germany amounting to £300,000,000. The professor retorted in figures. He showed that the national fortune of Germany before the war was £18,000,000,000, and the State revenue £1,500,000,000. Therefore, in the event of the Allies' victory these could not obtain an indemnity of more than £90,000,000 annually, calculated on a national capital reduced to £12,000,000,000. The leading object of the war in 1914 was planned economic and financial ruin. In many Swiss and German financial quarters the paternity of this gigantic plot is attributed to Dr. Helfferich.

HONGKONG TIDES.

The tide-table given below has been compiled at the National Almsend Office in London from the result of the analysis of observations taken by means of an automatic tide-recording machine in the Water Police Basin at Tsim Sha Tsui during the years 1904-5.

The zero of the tide corresponds with the zero of the sounding in the Admiralty Chart, which has been found to be 4 feet 3 inches below mean sea-level. To obtain the depth of water on the tide gauge at the Victoria Naval Yard add 4 feet 3 inches and on the gauge at Leung's Dock, Aberdeen, add 10 feet 4 inches to the height given in the table.

December 7th to 13th, 1918.
